Councillor Powers reflects on a successful year for the city

By Cary Shuman

Ward 3 Councillor John Powers called it a “successful year” for the city and pledged to continue to move Revere forward in the year ahead.

Powers won re-election in November, defeating Eric Lampeddico, a formidable candidate who worked hard and was visible at most Council meetings, by 334 votes. It was a rematch of their 2017 race.

“Tiring the race was good for the ward, because going door to door gave me the opportunity to listen to their concerns and inform residents about the many good things that are happening throughout the city,” said Powers.

There have been tremendous improvements in Ward 5, according to Powers. He cited the Council’s approval of funding for a new Ward 5 fire station that will service the Point of Pines, Revere Beach Boulevard, and the entire city when needed.

Construction of the new fire station is expected to begin in early 2020.

Powers also noted that the city has installed new sewer lines and catch basins throughout the ward and it is currently in the process of cleaning the Eastern Courts District that serves the Ward 5 area.

Powers hailed the Gibson Park renovations as a major plus for all residents of Ward 5. The park has new play ground equipment, including a rolling practice area, and new lighting.

The demolition of Wonderland Greyhound Park, which was completed in early January, sets the stage for future development of the 15-acre property. Powers worked for several years to facilitate the dismantling of the dangerous and unsightly buildings.

Powers also worked with his colleagues on the Council to amend the zoning at the Mills Avenue Boatyard, thereby preventing over-development of large apartment buildings on the site.

Powers credits Mayor Brian Arrigo for bringing Amazon to the city [NEC CO property] that will create more than 600 new jobs. Councillor Powers added that he is "excited about working with Mayor Brian Arrigo and his colleagues on the City Council to continue moving Revere in a positive direction."

Ocean Avenue receives $1m grant

On Wednesday at the State Police Barracks on Revere Beach Mayor Brian Arigo joined Economic Development Secretary Mike Kennealy, House Speaker Robert A. DeLeo and Revere’s elected officials to accept a $1 million MassWorks Infrastructure Program grant. The grant will be used for the Ocean Avenue Gateway project, which calls for infrastructural improvements ahead of the construction of two hotels planned for Revere Beach.

The $1 million grant will relocate overhead utilities and make intersection improvements on Ocean Avenue, clearing the way for the two planned hotels.

Mayor Arigo the project will also include the re-surfacing of approximately 2,800 feet of roadway and the reconfiguration and re-landscaping of the intersection at Revere Beach Parkway. Collectively, the two permitted hotel sites will generate about 300 rooms and an 80-seat restaurant, with the larger of the two developments valued at $40 million.

“The infrastructure improvements will help advance the long-term goal of a well-conceived Revere Transit-Oriented Development District,” said Mayor Arigo. “Thanks to the support of Gov. Baker, Mayor DeLeo and House Speaker DeLeo, and this record-breaking $1 million MassWorks grant, this project will help make Revere Beach a much better place to live, work and play."

Revere Mayor Brian Arrigo addresses the crowd at City Councillor Tony Zambuto, Gerry Visconti and John Powers look on.

Over the years, Malden Catholic has been known for academic rigor and scholarly pursuits, but with the addition of the Girls Division in 2018, the school now boasts of a newly expanded, multi-faceted arts program.

"Starting and balancing both right and left brain is critical to promoting the whole person," stated Lisa Cinca, Principal of the Girls Division. "Creative arts help kids think more critically and creatively," she added. According to a study published by the American Psychological Association, high school students who take music courses score significantly better on exams in certain subject including math and science, than their nonmusical peers. Over 112,000 student records were studied and those who participated in music, who had higher achievement in math and science, and those who participated in music had higher exam scores across all subjects.

As the foundation of the expanded program, nine new courses including choir, advanced choir, introduction to dance, jazz, contemporary dance, drama, musical theater, speech and debate and IEL have all been added to the curriculum. Fine arts courses also balance out the academic structure with drawing, digital art and photography.

In a time when many institutions have cut funding for the arts, Malden Catholic has made a significant investment in targeted skilled teachers to support the expansion. Experiential and connectivity between two prior MassWorks Infrastructure Projects at Shirley Avenue and Revere Beach Parkway. Additionally, the project will provide access to T-ops. "Infrastructure improvement that advance transit-oriented development is key to a vibrant, sustainable, and attractive community that encourages residents and visitors alike to utilize public transit," he said at the event.

Secretary Mike Kennealy said these MassWorks improvements in Revere will also support increased multi-modal safety.

Many of us will resolve to eat at home more in the year ahead. It may be for health or economic reasons. This doesn’t mean you can cook a meal from start to finish every day. Even those of us who routinely or sometimes rely on restaurant meals can enjoy a few homemade, not to mention cheaper, meals in the coming months.

We were reminded of this when we were lucky enough to sit down and have dinner one evening with a friend who said, “I don’t cook much, but I love to cook.” Her words came back to Penny one afternoon when she was preparing a “clean out the refrigerator” menu she has been making when trying to make one dish out of all the leftovers and unprepared food she filled our dining bar with an array of food.

Leftover chicken was sliced. A big bowl of casserole and scallops were dressed with a spicy vinagrette. Raita, bell peppers, tomatoes, celery, and carrot sticks were served as snacks and the rest of the food was used to add crunch to the rice we created. The whole plate was like having food from the favorite takeout restaurant. We had the same feeling when we tried to be sensitive to the food choices of many things. In a time limited menu, we often found that when we try to be sensitive to the food choices of many things. In a time

Smart Shopping

If our week is going to be a busy one, we may rely on partially cooked meals from the dining bar with an array of options and frozen entrees. If we’ll have some time for cooking, but not a lot, we may choose to make a big pot of stew, stocks, or an array of mostly cooked root vegetables as the components of upcoming meals.

When mealtime arrives we can surround that centerpiece with a simple bread and choose, pick up local produce, or make home-made refried beans. I figure I know what’s on hand and what we asked from our shop. We care what food they want to try and give them the ability to personalize it by providing condiments.

For example, a big pot of chili can be spiced differently. A selection of hot sauces, and toppings like onions, beans, and chives can make one bowl super spicy and another rich with cheese and sour cream to moderate the heat. For reduced diets, you can make the chili vegetable and offer a side plate of burnt ends or shredded pork from a BBQ shop.

Whatever you have or lack in cooking skills, most of us can shop with care, make the most of take out items, and put a good meal on the table at home for ourselves or guests. It just means taking a different approach to feeding folks, and, like our friend, cook less and assemble more.

This is a wonderful time of the year, to paraphrase the song, with holiday music playing in the malls and on our car radios, resurrecting our earliest childhood memories – even for the youngest set – of Christmas past.

We choose just the right tree, decorate it carefully with our family heirlooms, and tend to it carefully until the lights, it brings a smile even to the oldest among us.

Despite the hectic rush to buy and wrap, it’s somehow, in a good mood. We endure the traffic, the lines in stores, and more, because we know that what we are doing will bring joy and happiness to others.

For so many of us with young children, we get to see Christmas through their eyes, giving us a second-chance to experience the wonder and joy that we felt when we were their age.

Although all of us celebrate the holiday season in our own way, the common thread is one of peace, joy, and hope, regardless of religious or secular beliefs. Wheth-

We wish all of our readers a happy holiday season.

Conductor Robert Lehmann and the NSPO were once again on the altar of St. Anthony’s Church on Revere Street on Dec. 15. Standing room only, as local residents packed the church pews and brought a record number of food items as the price of admission to this annual event. The St. Anthony Holy Name Society collected non-perishable foods as the concert goers entered the church and all donations benefit the local food bank for the holiday season rush.

The concert began with a welcoming from Father Xavier, Administrator of Saint Anthony’s and some brief words about the history of the concert by Robert A Marra Jr., President of the Board of Directors for the NSPO, and Revere Mayor Brian Arrigo.

A Christmas essay was written and narrated by RHS student, Jason Acosta and a special selection of music was directed by all the under 10-year-olds, via a magic Christmas wand. It was a terrific evening for all in attendance, given the long history that this event has in the hearts of Revere residents, remembering a RHS music teacher and neighbor, and first chair violinist at so many concerts in St. Anthony’s Church, the concert’s namesake, Robert A. Joe Llanos named Globe Player of the Year

Revere High’s outstanding football player, Joe Llanos, who led the Patriots to the most successful season in their history this past fall, was named as the Division 4 Player of the Year by the Boston Globe this past week.

Llanos led the Patriots to their first-ever 10-win season in which they advanced to the D-4 North final, where they fell to eventual state champion Milford.

Llanos ran for 2,020 yards and scored 30 all-purpose touchdowns, tying a Revere record. On defense he picked off seven passes (returning two for touchdowns) and was a strong tackler in the open field from his safety position.

On special teams, he ran back two kickoffs for touchdowns (tying a Revere record). On offense, he ran for 2,020 yards and scored 30 touchdowns, and also averaged 100 yards per game in the open field from his safety position.

During the season, he scored 200 points, breaking the school record for most points in a single season. He also led the team in all-purpose touchdowns, with 30, and set a new school record for most points in a single game. He was named to the All-State team and was a finalist for the Globe Player of the Year award.

The Patriots dominated the meet, taking first place in every event and second in all but two.

Junior David Del Rosario turned in an outstanding performance for the first meet of the season. David qualified for sectionals in the 200 IM and States in the 100 backstroke, winning both races.

Junior Riled Cashaw won his two races, the 200 free and 100 butterfly. Sophomore Ashton Hoang took first in the 100 free and 100 breast-stroke.

The trio then combined with sophomore Jeffrey Martinez to win the 400 free relay, just missing sectionals in the latter.

Senior Ahmed Khalid won the 50 free in a personal record time of 24.75. Sophomore Mohammed Benazzab took first in the long distance 500 free.

East Boston Savings Bank Charitable Foundation awards MVES grant

Mystic Valley Elder Services (MVES) recently received a $2,500 grant from the East Boston Savings Bank Charitable Foundation for its Elder Independence program. The $2,500 grant to the Elder Independence program will use funds to provide low-income elders and adults with disabilities to pay for an emergency shelter in a transitional service that helps the individual remain independent. “We are very grateful to the East Boston Savings Bank Charitable Foundation and its generous donors,” said Daniel Ciccarello, Executive Director of Mystic Valley Elder Services. “This Elder Independence grant will be a tremendous benefit to the East Boston community and it will help our seniors maintain their independence in our communities.” The Elder Independence program is in place as a last resort to provide community services, purchase essential home care services, and avoid the need for a nursing home placement. “There is nothing else which has no other government program or in-house solution. In order to increase the accuracy and to maintain the continuity of their services, and to respond to the needs of local older adults and adults with disabilities. Mystic Valley Elder Services seeks support from funders such as East Boston Savings Bank Charitable Foundation awards MVES grant.”

Waking up the Crimson Tide and putting offensive rebounds on the boards, and controlling the boards, as well as holding on offense, was what the Patriots were able to do. The Crimson Tide won the first half on offense or defense, but fell way behind in the second half on offense or defense, and in the end with senior guard Mike Twyman (28 points, nine rebounds) giving them the win, the Patriots took the top spot in seven of the nine events and earned a pair of second place finishes in the 200IM and the high jump with a leap of 5'3".

The Patriots respond, however, to their limits, led by two baskets by junior guard Jean Monexant (26 points, nine rebounds), they began to control the boards and led 15-3 by the end of the first half. The Patriots were able to control the boards, and once again yielded a pair of early baskets by forward Calvin Boudreau (five points, seven rebounds) and forward Raduazzo each nailed a three-pointer and a free throw, respectively, for the Patriots.

RHS HEAD COACH Sam Ros. “We won the events we needed to win one or two that were close. We won it in the last 10 rounds of the match.” Revere and its many, many talented players, finished fourth in the State Speed Classic this past Saturday at the Newburyport Country Club in its next meet on Jan. 6 with Somerville at RHS.

The Patriots' next dual meet is scheduled for Jan. 6, with Somerville at RHS.

The Rossetti-Cowan Senior Center seniors were privileged to enjoy the St. Mary’s High School of Lynn Dancers who performed their annual Holiday Spectacular on Thursday, Dec. 12. For over twenty years this dance troupe, under the guidance of instructor Beverly Richards-Buckley, has arrived at 25 Winthrop Ave. with a unique blend of dance and song. Revere seniors thoroughly enjoyed this Christmas extravaganza.

This book discusses the history of the colonization of Australia. This was largely accomplished by means of the importation of prisoners from England, Ireland and Scotland to the aforementioned continent. The book is a frightening indictment of the penal system in Great Britain and it is rife with accounts of the cruelties inflicted on the ‘convicts,’ who were offered a sympathetic overview of their punishments, which were often excessive. At this stage of the game, it is difficult to tell how much of the blame can be imputed to the commanding officer, Robert Hughes is an excellent writer, and he knows how to depict the cruelties of the convict system. Robert Hughes is an excellent writer, and he knows how to depict the cruelties of the convict system. He is quite convincing in his depiction of the cruel treatment of the convicts by their guards and overseers, who must have been under considerable duress at all times. Hughes begins with a history of notable rebels who escaped the clutches of what Hughes alludes to as “The System.” Among them was a convict who numbered in the hundreds. A number of outlaws who were idealized in such anachrons as “The Wild Colonial Boy.” Hughes wishes philosophically when he expounds on the fate of convict men. He describes the barbarities and cruel fate to which they were assigned. In fact, throughout the book the author himself to be a gentleman by displaying his sympathy for the down-trodden and oppressed Sinners. In the book, there is a history of the most notorious punishment ven- tures of the Australian Penal Colony, namely Van Diemen’s Land and Norfolk Island. These islands were reserved for the most opprimed and oppressed offenders, and the horrible punishments inflicted by Hughes are legion. Eventually and finally, sen- timent in England towards punishment changed to a milder approach. Penitentiaries were built in England and “The System” thank- fully, his command of the English language is beyond superior. Hughes knows how to tell a story. He was an Australian himself native who emigrated to Europe and the United States. His books include “The Art of Australia: Can you have Heaven in Western Art” and “The Wild Colonial Boy.” He passed away in 2012. “The Fruitful Earth” is a disturbing read. The conditions of the lower classes in England and the importation of prisoners were conducive to the proliferation of crime, and the authorities felt the need to devise a means of punishment for what were seen as minor offenses. Poverty was rife and the temptation to rob the till, to speak were obviously profound. Hence the develop- ment of the Penal Colony in Australia. Robert Hughes does a fine job of delineat- ing the injustices that occurred during the workings of “The System,” and he is to be congratulated for this superb account. The work, while somewhat disturbing, is informative and enlight- ening. Hopefully the reader will be enhanced in their knowledge and understanding of history. Happy Read- ing! Bernie Kelly
